SC orders interim stay on forcible exhumations in Chhattisgarh

Amid plea over tribal Christians' burial rights

Express News Service
New Delhi, February 18

THE SUPREME Court on Wednesday ordered an interim stay on the forcible exhumation of bodies in Chhattisgarh while hearing a plea that alleged that tribal Christians in the state were being denied the right to bury their dead in their villages and that those already buried were being forcibly shifted.

Issuing notice to the state government on the public interest litigation (PIL) filed by the Chhattisgarh Association for Justice and Equality and Others, a bench of Justice Vikram Nath and Sandeep Mehta ordered, "In the meantime, it is provided that no further exhumation of buried bodies shall be permitted."

On January 27, 2025, the Supreme Court had delivered a split verdict on a plea seeking permission to bury a deceased Christian pastor in the village graveyard or on his private agricultural land in the state.

While Justice B V Nagarathna stated that the petitioner be permitted to bury his father in his private land, Justice S C Sharma had held that through procedures pertaining to last rites and ceremonies fall under fundamental rights guaranteed by the Constitution, no citizen has an "unqualified right claim that such right(s) would encompass the unqualified right to choose the "place" of such ceremony (including burial)...".

However, given that three weeks had already passed since the death and the body was in the mortuary, the two judges had agreed that the body be buried in a designated burial ground for Christians in Karkapal village, 25-30 kms from his hometown.

On Wednesday, Senior Advocate Colin Gonsalves, appearing for the petitioners, said the split verdict is being misused by the state to stop the burials of tribal Christians even in places where there is no dispute at the local level.

The PIL urged the court to declare that all persons, irrespective of their religion, caste or SC/ST/OBC status, will be free to bury their deceased in their villages and to direct all gram panchayats in the state to demarcate specific areas in villages for burials.

Democratising AI, respecting sovereignty working on, India may also mention a charter for AI diffusion in a "democratic" way, the official said. This could be a voluntary and non-binding framework, but would focus primarily on "promoting access to foundational AI resources," while "respecting national laws," the official said.

As such, promotion of open-source AI services are also likely to feature in the upcoming Delhi declaration, a signal which counters AI development in the West, where frontier models like OpenAI's ChatGPT and Google's Gemini are proprietary services.

"Open-source AI applications and other accessible AI approaches and wide-scale diffusion of AI use cases can contribute to scalability, replicability, and adaptability of AI systems across sectors," the official said.

India may endorse the development of a voluntary platform to facilitate exchange of learning, knowledge, and scalable practices to advance AI adoption for social empowerment. It could also recommend the creation of a platform to connect scientific communities and pool AI research capabilities across regions.

India is also likely to nudge countries to recognise, in the declaration, the development of voluntary and non-binding "Trusted AI Commons," a collaborative platform consolidating technical resources, tools, benchmarks and best practices that all can access and adapt to their contexts. Along with it, a "Global AI Impact Commons" could also be developed, which would be a voluntary initiative that provides a platform to encourage and enable the adoption, replication, and scale-up of successful AI use cases across regions. The official said that the key idea behind why Delhi would push for the democratising narrative is because the government sees AI having the potential to "genuinely uplift all sections of society by enabling individuals to access knowledge, cross-border AI solutions, information, services, opportunities and enhancing participation in social and economic activities".

India is also expected to address AI's growing energy needs and is likely to insert language in the declaration reflecting the importance of developing energy efficient AI systems, and a redoubled focus on renewables to power this effort.

Noting that the promise of AI would require equipping individuals with relevant skills by expanding AI human resource development, Delhi may also endorse specific initiatives on education, AI workforce development, training of public officials, enhancing public awareness of AI capabilities, increasing AI literacy as well as upgrading vocational and training ecosystems.

There also could be voluntary guiding principles for reskilling and a playbook on AI workforce development.

Google subsea cables to link India-US extraordinary trajectory with AI, and we want to be a part of it," he said in a media briefing.

"For countries like India, AI presents a chance to leapfrog age-old gaps and create new opportunities. These also happen to be the places where we see the greatest adoption and optimism for AI technologies, which I don't think is a coincidence," he said. He was present at the briefing along with Demis Hassabis, CEO of Google DeepMind.

Last October, Google had announced it will invest $15 billion over five years to set up an AI data centre in Andhra Pradesh, in what would be its biggest investment yet in the country. The tech giant has partnered with the Adani Group and Airtel to build the infrastructure for the project, which also includes the construction of a new international subsea gateway.

Pichai also announced that Google DeepMind, the company's AI research arm, will partner with Indian government bodies and local institutions on frontier AI capabilities. In a press release, Google said the company will partner with the Anusandhan National Research Foundation (ANRF) to facilitate the adoption of AI models to advance science. "We're providing access to our frontier AI for Science models, including AlphaGenome, AI Co-scientist and Earth AI," it said. It also announced a partnership with Niti Aayog's Atal Tinkering Labs to incorporate robotics and coding into local curricula, integrate Gemini into teacher workflows, and build a "safely guardrailed AI assistant for students".

"In the global AI transformation, India is showing exceptional leadership in applying the technology to tackle its own biggest challenges. But India is going even further, playing a critical international role by convening this week the fourth global AI summit of governments, companies and civil society. International dialogue and collaboration will guide positive impacts and create the global frameworks required to prepare society for a future with AI," Google DeepMind said in a statement. Google announced the $30-million Google.org Impact Challenge: AI for Science, an open call for researchers, nonprofits, and social enterprises in India, and around the world, using AI to achieve scientific breakthroughs. Selected awardees will also be able to participate in a Google.org Accelerator, receiving engineering support, mentorship, and infrastructure from Google DeepMind and Google Research to turn their concepts into scalable discoveries.

AAP sarpanch shot dead

Villagers said Harbrinder was an active member of the ruling AAP and a close associate of Punjab cabinet minister Laljit Singh Bhullar.

The incident comes nearly a month after another sarpanch and AAP leader, Jharmal Singh of Valtoha village in Amritsar district, was shot dead during a marriage function.

Jarnail Singh had arrived at the venue to attend a wedding when unknown gunmen suddenly entered and opened fire. A video footage retrieved from the wedding hall show two attackers coming from behind and shooting him on the back of the head. The firing caused chaos at the ceremony, with guests scrambling for safety.

Later, police arrested two shooters and five other accused.

The killing took place even as the Punjab government is conducting the second phase of its anti-gangster drive, "Gangsteran Te Vaar".

Door closes on Muslim quota in education in Maharashtra as state scraps 2014 policy

Zeeshan Shaikh & Vallabh Ozarkar
Mumbai, February 18

THE MAHARASHTRA government on Tuesday scrapped a decade-old resolution linked to the 2014 Muslim quota plan in education, sparking a political war of words, with the Opposition calling it anti-minority and the BJP dismissing it as an unimplemented Congress "appeasement" stunt announced ahead of elections.

The state's Social Justice Department has withdrawn a 2014 Government Resolution that allowed around 50 identified Muslim communities to obtain caste verification and validity certificates under the Special Backward Category-A (SBC-A), effectively closing the last administrative route to reservation claims in education.

Defending the move, Social Justice Minister Sanjay Shirsat said the reservation was announced by the Congress "just ahead of the elections" to appease voters, but the required legal and administrative steps were never completed.

Meanwhile, the Opposition on Wednesday attacked the Mahayuti government's move, calling it "anti-minority" and questioning the need to withdraw a quota framework that had lapsed years ago. The NCP (Sharadchandra Pawar) said the decision showed the BJP did not value Muslim leaders within its party and allies. "It also shows that these Muslim leaders won't get justice from the BJP," spokesperson Clyde Crasto said. AIMIM leader and former MP Imtiaz Jaleel also criticised the move, alleging that the ruling party did not want Muslim youth to rise topositions like IAS and IPS officers.

The decision also terminates all previous resolutions issued on the subject, bringing a formal closure to a policy first introduced in 2014 but never fully implemented. In November that year, the Bombay High Court had upheld the principle of allowing reservation for Muslims in government and government-funded educational institutions, even as the ordinance later lapsed.

The demand for Muslim reservation in Maharashtra took institutional shape in 2008 when the then Congress-NCP government set up a committee under retired IAS officer Mehmood ur Rahman to study the socio-economic condition of Muslims in the state.

After five years of study, the committee reported that nearly 60 per cent of Muslims in Maharashtra were below the poverty line. Representation in government jobs stood at 4.4 per cent and only 2.2 per cent of the community were graduates. The panel recommended 8 per cent reservation in state employment, education and housing, arguing that affirmative action was necessary to address structural backwardness.

Acting on the findings, the Congress-NCP government in July 2014 issued an ordinance granting 16 per cent reservation to Marathas and 5 per cent reservation to Muslims in government jobs and government-run educational institutions.

The Muslim quota did not apply to the entire community. Instead, it created a Special Backward Category-A (SBC-A) and included around 50 identified socially and educationally backward Muslim communities, largely comprising groups such as weavers, butchers, oil pressers and the fisher folk. Individuals from these communities were required to obtain caste and caste validity certificates.

The decision was challenged in the Bombay High Court. In its judgment on November 14, 2014, the court struck down Maratha reservation, but allowed 5 per cent reservation for Muslims in education.

The bench said: "We are accordingly satisfied about the existence of (an) exception of compelling or extraordinary circumstances for exceeding the reservation ceiling limit of 50% by another 5% in so far as reservations to state owned or aided educational institutions are concerned." It emphasised the broader constitutional goal of mainstreaming disadvantaged communities: "Interim stay of provisions in the impugned Ordinance providing for reservations of seats in educational institutions will certainly impede the process of drawing the Muslim youths into the mainstream of secular education in the State."

Though, the ordinance was not converted into a permanent law within the constitutional time frame and was allowed to lapse on December 23, 2014, after the BJP came to power in the state. While the government pursued legal remedies to restore Maratha reservation, no legislative effort was made to preserve the Muslim quota framework. As a result, the 5 per cent reservation in education ceased to operate and the Government Resolution issued under the ordinance gradually lost effect.

After the Maharashtra Vikas Aghadi government came to power, the issue resurfaced briefly. In February 2020, Minority Affairs Minister Nawab Malik informed the Maharashtra Legislative Council that the government would bring a law to provide 5 per cent reservation to Muslims in educational institutions. However, within a week, Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray clarified that no such proposal was under consideration.

The latest Government Resolution formally revokes all directions and administrative processes linked to the earlier policy, including issuance of caste and validity certificates under SBC-A for Muslim communities.

Bangladesh signals reset in ties with India after boycott of T20 World Cup strained diplomatic ties. "You know that because of diplomatic complications, we could not play in the World Cup. If those issues had been discussed and settled earlier, our team might have participated," he said. Following its election victory, the new Bangladesh Nationalist Party (BNP) government has indicated that it wants to recalibrate ties. Besides, there is a sense in Dhaka that the interim government under Prof Mohammad Yunus mishandled the situation by boycotting the World Cup. Although there is resentment over Mustafizur's exclusion from the IPL, and India for what is perceived to be an inappropriate response, the boycott decision is being seen as counterproductive.

Meanwhile, the Sports Minister also questioned the legitimacy of the recent BCB polls, indirectly questioning the standing of board president Aminul Islam. "Regarding the cricket board election, I have said before and I still say that it was questionable," Haque said.

"Look, this matter is regulated by the ICC. Within the framework of the law and regulations, whatever needs to be done will be addressed through discussions. After sitting down and reviewing everything properly, I will comment further," he said.

The Daily Star also reported that the BCB president Aminul Islam Bulbul had left the country citing personal reasons while the board's CEO Nizamuddin Chowdhury has departed for Australia to join his family residing there.

Rajasthan HC

Amid ongoing security checks, Acting Chief Justice Sharma visited the court complex and carried out a surprise inspection of district, metropolitan and other subordinate courts. During the inspection, several courtrooms were found vacant and a number of judicial officers were not present at their seats. Taking a serious view of the lapse in discipline and punctuality, the Acting Chief Justice ordered immediate administrative action.

Among the judicial officers placed under APO, District and Sessions Judge Ajay Sharma has been directed to mark his presence at the Rajasthan High Court in Jodhpur, while the remaining seven officers have been instructed to report to the headquarters of the District and Sessions Judge.

statement, saying "confusion" was created after one of its representatives provided "factually incorrect information" while manning the pavilion.

"We at Galgotias University wish to apologise profusely for the confusion created at the recent AI Summit. One of our representatives, manning the pavilion, was ill-informed. She was not aware of the technical origins of the product and in her enthusiasm of being on camera, gave factually incorrect information even though she was not authorised to speak to the press," it said.

"We request your kind understanding as there was no institutional intent to misrepresent this innovation. Galgotias University remains firmly committed to academic integrity, transparency, and responsible representation of our work. Understanding the organisers sentiment, we have vacated the premises," the university said.

The row erupted after Professor Neha Singh, a faculty member from the Communications Department at Galgotias University, speaking to a TV reporter about a quadruped robot dog on display, said: "This is Orion... and this has been developed by the Centre of Excellence at the Galgotias University." The institution, she said, was the first private university to invest more than Rs 350 crore in AI.

Within hours, social media users identified the robot as the Unitree Go2, a commercially available quadruped manufactured by China-based Unitree Robotics and priced at roughly $1,600.

On Wednesday, as criticism mounted, Singh said her comments had been misunderstood.

"I may not have expressed things very clearly," she said, attributing the controversy to the pace and enthusiasm of the interaction. "We did not change the branding. So how can we claim that we have manufactured this?"

Aishwarya Srivastava, a member of the project team, also denied that the university had ever claimed to have built the robot dog, saying it was procured as part of a broader investment in AI so that students could study and experiment with advanced technologies.

There was no clarity on who had cleared the Galgotias University exhibits.

According to the India AI Impact Summit website, Indian and international corporates, startups, academic institutions, public sector undertakings, government bodies and ministries with AI-focused products, solutions or research innovations are eligible to exhibit.

Exhibitors are required to first submit an Expression of Interest through the official website, after which submissions are reviewed and confirmed via email, following which booth details, costs and allocation in thematic pavilions are shared.

Standard charges listed on the website show that academic institutions and research organisations are charged Rs 9,000 per square metre; domestic and international corporates Rs 25,000 per square metre; DPIIT-recognised startups Rs 12,500 per square metre; government ministries and states Rs 9,000 per square metre; public sector undertakings Rs 9,000 per square metre; and startup pods Rs 25,000 per pod. Standard shell scheme booths begin at 9 square metres.

A Ministry of Electronics and IT statement, issued on February 3, stated: "Eligible participants – Startups, enterprises, research institutions, and AI organizations can register via the official website... Once the 'Exhibit with Us' Expression of Interest form is submitted by the organisation, the submissions will be reviewed and confirmed via email. The organisations will then be provided booth details, costs, and allocation in the thematic pavilions."

कैडर विस्तार और आधुनिक सुविधाओं का उठाया मुद्दा

ग्रामीण कल्याण अधिकारी संघ के नव गठित बैठक करते प्रदेश संरक्षक के अतिरिक्त मुख्य सचिव राकेश शर्मा भगत नेगी। संवाद

ग्रामीण कल्याण अधिकारी संघ के अध्यक्ष सुदीप विमट ने ग्रामीण स्तर पर महिलाओं को डिजिटल बनाने को लेकर आधुनिक कंप्यूटर, हाई स्पीड इंटरनेट और सुनिश्चित ढांचे को और अधिक मजबूत करने की मांग दोहराई। कहा कि महिला में पदोन्नति के अवसर अत्यंत सीमित हैं जिससे अधिकारियों का उत्साह प्रभावित होता है। संघ ने कैडर के विस्तार और पदोन्नति प्रक्रिया में देरी लाने का आग्रह किया। संघ ने कार्यालयों में ईकेम पड़े पदों और चुनिंदा सुविधा प्राथमिकता के आधार पर भरने की मांग की। कहा कि दुर्गम क्षेत्रों में आगमन के लिए वाहन सुविधा प्रदान की जाए। इसमें विभाग की कार्यकुशलता बढ़ेगी। साथ ही योजनाओं को सुलभता से पात्र लाभार्थियों तक पहुंचाने में भी मदद मिलेगी।

अतिरिक्त मुख्य सचिव राकेश शर्मा भगत नेगी ने संघ के पदाधिकारियों को आश्वासन दिया कि विभाग फील्ड स्तर के कार्यालयों को सुदृढ़ करने के लिए जल्द ही आवश्यक कदम उठाएगा। बैठक में निदेशक (एसआरडी, एसडी, आरडब्ल्यूडी) सुमित डिम्मटा, अपर सचिव डॉ. गोपाल कृष्ण, सहायक कल्याण अधिकारी संघ के महासचिव नितीश कुमार, सहायक कल्याण अधिकारी रोहित कुमार, चंचल, जगदीश, कमलकांत, करण पठानक, विपुल, पीयूष और सुधाश मौजूद रहे। संवाद
